The center's Street Outreach Program provides youth services for those who are experiencing homelessness and utilizes homes in the area as a resource. The team helped repair minor damages to two of these homes and completed necessary upgrades.

Thanks to a Wytheville native and Robins & Morton's Carilion Roanoke Memorial Hospital team, recently vandalized picnic tables at Spiller Elementary School have been replaced.

Although he is working in currently Florida, Assistant Project Manager Brent Rigney is from Wytheville, Virginia, and keeps up with matters in his hometown.

When he saw a Facebook post that someone vandalized picnic tables at an elementary school, he reached out to the Robins & Morton project team at Carilion Roanoke Memorial Hospital in Roanoke, Virginia, only about 75 miles away.

Rigney asked the team for help in providing some replacement tables for the school, and Senior Superintendent Bill Stevens didn't hesitate. He put his carpenters to work building replacements.

In no time, the team had completed the three replacement tables, plus three more, and transported them to Spiller Elementary School.

"Our students and staff were elated to know that they would have new tables on the playground," Spiller Elementary Principal Summer Stone said. "What an amazing response time to a need. Our students will be able to enjoy the tables for years to come."
